PROCEEDINGS OF PARLIAMENT-THE BUDGET-FENIAN ARRESTS-PRINCE ALFRED SHOT, &C. LONDON, April 23-Midnight .- In the House of Lords to-night, Earls Buckinghamshire and Carnarvon eulogized the late Hon. Thomas

D'Arcy McGee, of Canada. In the House of Commons Mr. Hunt, Chancellor of the Exchequer, submitted the annual budget. The returns for the last fiscal year, which had been estimated at £70,000,000, yielded a total of £69,600,000, falling about one-third of a million below the estimate made by the government. The real expansion of the revenue amounted to nearly £900,000. The expenditures of the last year were estimated at about £71,350,000, and fell £50,000 short of that amount. The surplus of receipts over the expenditures during the coming fiscal year is estimated by the minister at £920,000. The cost of the Abyssian war is estimated at £5,-000,000.

An alarming report has just been received. Two men, supposed to be Fenians, were arrested at a late hour, near the servants' door of Buckingham Palace, carrying a hamper, which was found to contain a gallon of "Greek fire." The parties made a desperate resistance. and were with difficulty secured. A third person in the company fled as soon as the latter were seized, and has escaped all pursuit.

THE NEW NOMINEE FOR SECRETARY OF WAR-THE IMPEACHMENT TRIAL-MR. GROESBECK'S AEGUMENT-WASHINGTON NEWS AND GOSSIP. WASHINGTON, April 25-Noon.-It is General J. W. Schofield, commanding First Military District, whom the President has nominated as Secretary of War. General Schofield's nomination causes various speculations-first, that the olive branch is held out to Conservative senators; second, a compromise between Johnson and Grant. But the affair is still a State secret. Johnson appears not to have consulted even the members of his Cabinet about the nomination. In the Impeachment Court, Sumner propos-ask each senator "How do you vote?" and he $28 25a28 50. Bacon unchanged. Lard 19ja shall reply "Guilty" or "Not Guilty;" and 191c. second, that upon conviction it shall be the duty of the presiding officer to order the convict's removal forthwith. Objection was raised, and the matter goes over to Monday.

Mr. Groesbeck then opened his argument for the defence. He held that the body he was addressing was a court, arguing from the conscitution, which permitted neither bills of attainder nor irresponsible tribunals, especially such as were laws unto themselves. Lincoln's plain violation of the constitution had been ratified by Congress because his motives were good. He then proceeded to argue that the first and eighth articles rested on whether the President had a right to remove Stanton and give Thomas an ad interim appointment. He 31 cents. argued that he had. Had Lincoln lived, and had the Tenure-of-office bill been passed in hostility to Lincoln, Lincoln, under its provisions, during his second term, could have legally removed a Cabinet officer appointed by himself during his first term, and that Stanton had infinitely less claim to the tenure under Mr. Johnson's term.

Mr. Groesbeck was suffering from bronchitis; an adjournment was proposed, but Mr. Groesbeck feared a few days' delay would not help him, and asked to be allowed to proceed, though the circumstance compelled him to make important omissions in his argument.

The President, having consulted advisors indicated by the constitution, was guiltless of crime. It was comparatively useless to urge the unconstitutionality of the act with those who framed it, but granting its constitutionality, he denied the President's criminality. The President's oath of office required him to main tain the constitution. Minor officers swore only to support it. Answering Mr. Boutwell, that the President was bound to execute all laws, Mr. Groesbeck inquired about the President's duty when the Supreme Court had declared a law unconstitutional. Groesbeck asked whether the President was to be convicted and deposed because he had acted on the interpretation sanctioned by his constitutional advisers, by the thirty-eighth Congress, by the Supreme Court, and the uniform practice of the government. The evidence showed the President acted in the pub. lic interest in removing Stanton. Groesbeck contended that the President's acquiescence in the Tenure-of-office bill as long as possible, was a point in the President's favor. As Groesbeck proceeded he recovered his voice and held the floor and galleries spell-bound. Concluding, he expressed his confidence in the final result, and characterized the precedents of eigners for their safety. convictions referred to by the managers as rather beacon lights of warning than examples for guidance. In conclusion, he pronounced a glowing eulogism upon Johnson's life, character and services more Sun writes:

PROBABLE DURATION OF THE TRIAL-DELIBERA TIONS ON THE VERDICT-ANTICIPATED COURSE OF SENATOR JOHNSON, &C.

It is now thought that Mr. Evarts will close on the part of the President, and Mr. Bingham will make the closing argument of all. Under this new rule it is now calculated that the con clusion of the trial will not be reached before the end of next week, which is a great disap-pointment to the more extreme of the im-peachers, who cannot bear the idea of a moment being loss. Then, when the last sum-ming up has been made by Mr. Bingham, there will be a motion made that the Senate retire for consultation on the verdict. This will be bitterly opposed by senators like Sumner, Drake and Howard, but there is no doubt that it will be acceded to. There will then be the

it will be acceeded to. There will then be the consideration of the eleven articles seriatim.

Hon. Reverdy Johnson and two or three of the other senators have taken pretty full notes during the entire progress of the trial, and it is probable that they, with other senators, may desire to make arguments on the legal aspects of the case, and hence an effort will be made, probably successful, to change the rule re-stricting each senator to ten minutes' time on the discussion of preliminary and interlocuto-

From the best information now obtainable t may be assumed that three days at least will be occupied by the Senate in making up its perdict, so that the trial will not, probably, all be over before about the 5th of May. Be it borne in mind that this new delay does not come from the counsel of the President, who expressed themselves as perfectly indifferent to the matter.

The Washington Star of Thursday evening as the following:

has the following:

It appears probable that the main question before the Senate in coming to a conclusion will be, did the President intentionally violate the law in the removal of Mr. Stanton and the appointment of General Thomas in his place? Those who hold that the Senate will convict upon this issue say that body will base its judgment upon the fact that the Chief Executive officer of the republic, bound by the constitution to "take care that the laws be faithfully executed," has no right, under any pretext, nor in pursuance of advice from any source, to wilfully violate a statute, whatever may be his private opinions as to its constitutionality.

It is curious how the barometer of opinion in It is curious how the barometer of opinion in regard to the question of conviction goes up and down from day to day without any positive cause. We do not believe that any one of the half dozen senators whose votes will decide the question has given the slightest indication how he will vote on the final issue; yet it is certain that the Washington atmosphere today is charged with the belief that conviction is certain. THE CLOSE OF THE TRIAL.

The Washington correspondent of the Boston Advertiser says :

The Senate, after the close of the arguments. will go into secret session for consultation. A proposition will be offered by Judge Edmunds will go into secret session for consultation. A proposition will be offered by Judge Edmunds to admit the official reporters, so that the speeches of the senators may be taken down and printed with the report of the trial, and half-a-dozen members are already known to be in favor of such procedure, while several will oppose it strongly. The vote on the separate articles of impeachment will be taken in open Senate on Wednesday or Thursday, probably, of next week. When the question arises of pronouncing judgment in case one or more of the articles is sustained, the managers will make the usual demand, and the Senate may possibly retire again for consultation. At this point an interesting law question is likely to be raised. The constitution says a two-thirds vote shall be necessary to convict, but is silent be raised. The constitution says a two-thirds vote shall be necessary to convict, but is silent as to the vote on the judgment, and the question is whether a majority or two-thirds must agree as to the sentence. Some of the lawyers in the Senate are looking up authorities on this head. The majority are doubtless in favor of disqualifying Mr. Johnson from ever holding office, in case he is convicted, but it is by no means certain that two-thirds of the senators would agree to this sentence. When judgment has been determined it will be pronounced by the Chief Justice. It is not necessary that the President should be present when this is done. Here the functions of the court will cease, and the Chief Justice will not appear in any further proceedings.

Most of the members are under party lash and outside influences are also very strong. Nothing but a secret ballot can affect the result unless, indeed, the next ten days bring wonderful changes. The discussion will probably be prolonged for that time, now that the field of discussion has been thrown open.

WHAT OLD THAD, THINKS. A Washington dispatch to the New York

Herald says: Thad. Stevens displays the strongest belief in the success of conviction. To-day he stated that thirty-eight of the senators were known to be in favor of conviction. I think you may take it as a fact nearly consummated, that Mr. Johnson will have to study up some such passage as this. His trial, at first a show, then a satiety, and now almost a destiny, can scarcely eventuate otherwise than in peremptory expulsion. His last reception, on Monday night, will probably be his last of all but one. From as careful canyass as I can make. Monday night, will probably be his list of all but one. In 1839 he was promoted to the rank of lieutenaut; and performed duty in various positions until 1851, when he was attached to the United States Coast Survey. In 1845 he was promoted to the rank of commander; and in the same year performed the service for which he was so celebrated, the rescue of Dr. Kane and his party from the Artic regions. While on this perilous expedition he leit the monument of Sir John Franklin on Beechy Island, and took her Majesty's steamer Resolute back to England. When upon this occasion he was presented to the Queen, he made that address which has been considered a model of its kind. He was subsequently engaged in taking soundings for the Atlantic Cable. He was awaiting orders for further service at the outbreak of the rebellion; and as a Southern gentleman, felt it his duty to resign the commission he held of the United States, and join his fortunes to the Confederacy. He was employed in various special services by the Confederate States Government. In 1863 he was attacked with paralysis of the right side. The statement that he became insane the year previous is entirely erroncous. His speech was much inpeded by the disease that the year previous is entirely erroneous. His speech was much impeded by the disease that had attacked him; but his intellect always remained bright and penetrating. Having sufmained bright and penetrating. The body was embalmed in Paris with allthat skill for which French surgeons are remarkable, and it is understood that it wears a most life-like aspect. The remains have been taken in charge by General Halstead, a school-fellow and valued friend of the deceased. The funeral will take place at Trinity Church, Newark, on Saturday next, on which occasion the coffin will be opened to give the friends of Commander Hartstene the opportunity of taking a farewell look at the mortal remains of him whom in life they deeply esteemed.

No. 275 King-street. CIRCULAR. TO THE LADIES OF THE VARIOUS CHURCHES IN THE CITY OF CHARLESTON .- We, the Officers and Members o he Young Men's Christian Association of Charles ton, would take this method of respectfully appeal ing to you for assistance. We propose holding

A FLORAL FESTIVAL OR FAIR, during the latter part of the coming month of May, hoping we may thereby realize a sufficient amoun to enable us to continue during the present year the various religious and charitable works which we success, but which we must necessarily but reluctantly abandon, unless we derive aid from some source. The plan of a Festival or Fair, during the season of flowers, has suggested itself to our minds, and we feel assured that it only requires your assis ance to make it a complete success.

one table or booth, supplying the same with such articles for sale as their own good judgment may suggest, believing that a generous emulation thus engendered, as to which shall best succeed, will, when all are combined in one collection, present a most elegant and complete display; and, furthermore, that each table remain under the control of the ladies who prepared it, in order that at the close of the Fair it may be seen which has succeeded best in the enterprise, and thereby contributed the largest amoun lowards the cause in which we are all so interested We, therefore, respectfully call upon the ladies composing the various congregations of all evangelical denominations in this city, to combine am themselves, and commence at once the preparation of such articles as their own fancy and judgment may dictate. Let all assist, the humblest as well as the wealthiest, and with united energies carry out

The members of the Association will, one and all, cheerfully perform all and every labor that may be required of them, and will hold themselves always in readiness to obey every reques . Those ladies who are willing to assist us are requested to meet every Friday Afternoon at Five o'clock, in the rooms of the Association (in Kingstreet, over Messrs. FOGARTIE & STILLMAN'S Store), to confer with each other and the officers of the Association, and perfect such arrangements as may become necessary in carrying out the plan suggested

LET NOT PREJUDICE USURP YOUR REASON .- It is a fact that, in the minds of many persons, a prejudice exists against what are called patent medicines; but why should this prevent you resorting to an article that has such an array of tes to support it as HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BIT-TERS? Physicians : cribe it; why should you discard it? Judges, usually considered men of taent, have used and do use it in their families; why should you reject it? Let not your prejudice usury your reason to the everlasting injury of your health If you are sick, and require medicine, try these Bit

When the bodily energies are worn out by anx iety and need a stimulant, this is the best that can be taken. It is tempered and modified by hygienic berbs and roots, which prevent it from tevering the blood; and hence it does not produce a mere temporary excitement, to be followed by injurious reaction, but communicates a permanent potency to the entire vital organization. some of its herbal constituents are slightly soportific, so that in cases where sleeplessness is one of the accompaniments of nervous disease, a dose of it taken towards bedtime wil tend to produce quiet and retreshing s.umber. For palpitation of heart, tremors, bysterics, tainting fits, general restlessness and the causeless fears and distressing fancies to which ladies are especially subject, under certain morbid conditions of mind and body peculiar to their sex, the Bitters will be found the most agreeable and certain of all counter-irri

The constitutionally nervous may readily keep their infirmity in constant check by the daily use of this healthful vesetable tonic; and those who hav 'shattered their nerves," as the phrase is, either by imprudent indulgence or undue physical or intel lectual labor, will find in this vitalizing elixir prompt restorative.
